Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Art Unit: 3773

Claims 1, 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Lesh et al-6,152,144.

As to claims 1, 4-6, Lesh-'144's Fig. 6-8, 11-12 and col. 9, lines 15-33, for example, show a occluding device for prevention of an embolic stroke comprising mesh membrane 61, expandable support structure 65, which can be expandable by a balloon or by a self expanding mechanism and a method substantially as recited in the claims. Notice that mesh membrane 61 as shown in Fig. 6-8 should allow blood flowing through and prevent any blot clot or thrombus having a size bigger than the mesh opening to go through.

It is well known in the art to prevent blood clot or thrombus to flow freely in a vascular system to prevent an embolic stroke to occur. Alternatively, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide mesh membrane 61 with pores or openings to prevent blood clot or thrombus going through the membrane and into a vascular system of a patient so that one can prevent an embolic stroke.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lesh et al-6,152,144.

As to claim 7, Lesh-'144 discloses substantially a device and a method of preventing an embolic stroke substantially as recited in the claims except for an opening in the Lesh-'144's membrane 61. However, Lesh-'144 (col. 9, lines 15-33) discloses a balloon to expand support structure 65. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide an opening in the membrane 61 so as one can withdraw the balloon from a left atrial appendage as this configuration is within level of one of ordinary skill in the art.

Art Unit: 3773
